I do not enter into a long-term contract and only pay for booked lessons.

Right of withdrawal

I can revoke this contractual declaration within 14 days, without giving reasons, by letter or email. The period begins after receipt of this instruction, its written confirmation or activation of the first teaching material. Cancellations must be sent to the address stated in this contract.

The right of revocation expires at the latest 14 days after activation of the first lessons.

Due to my right of revocation, I will receive upon initial registration one lesson. After expiry of the revocation period – without revocation – the further lessons will follow according to the selected booking.

Consequences of revocation

In the event of an effective revocation, login access will be blocked and any further lessons that have already been activated (from lesson 2) must be paid for at the individual price (see price list). If individual participants in a group booking cancel, the respective discount will be adjusted to the remaining number of participants in the group.

Special notes on cancellation

In the event of termination during the course of the distance learning program, activated study material cannot be refunded.

Data protection

The data to be entered above is used exclusively for communication between the distance learning provider and the distance learning graduate and is required for the purpose of the course. Your data will not be passed on to third parties without your consent. All your data will be deleted at the end of the contractual relationship.

Our general terms and conditions apply

I take note of my right of withdrawal:
